

Notes on Gardens (test excerpt)

The pomegranate tree grows well in warm valleys and needs moderate water. Farmers in al-Andalus wrote manuals on grafting fruit trees and caring for orchards.

The olive tree lives for centuries; its oil was pressed for food and for lamps.

On date palms

Date palms were pollinated by hand, and the books of agriculture describe the seasons for pollination and harvest.